

eClear receives AEO certification

Berlin, September 30, 2021 – eClear, the Berlin-based tax technology specialist for customs, tax and payment processes, has received certification from German Customs as an "Authorized Economic Operator." The AEO "Customs Simplifications" authorization (AEO C) will enable eClear customers to benefit from accelerated import customs processing in the future.

eClear offers e-commerce customers services and solutions that simplify and automate customs processes. The DeClear customs solution, for example, enables online merchants to sell their goods across borders without customs formalities and risks. Everything from the classification of goods and payment options, to customs and tax registration is integrated in the DeClear solution.

"As participants in the European customs process, we are pleased to have received AEO certification," says Andreas Weidner, VP Customs and Trade Compliance at eClear AG. "The certificate is an industry-recognized seal of quality that enables us to design our customs processes so that they are sustainable, compliant and fast for our customers."

The status as "Authorized Economic Operator" distinguishes eClear as particularly reliable and trustworthy and entitles the company, among other things, to concessions for security-relevant customs controls.
